and anyone who attends Worship

Rev. Dr. Constance Cherry is Professor of Worship and Pastoral Ministry at Indiana Wesleyan University where she directs four distinct programs in Christian worship. She is also a founding faculty member of The Robert E. Webber Institute for Worship Studies where she continues to teach in the Doctor of Worship Studies program since 2000. Constance is an experienced worship leader, musician, and pastor, serving in local church ministry for many years, and currently serving a local congregation as part-time pastor. She is an elder in the West Ohio Conference of The United Methodist Church. Constance is the author of five books used widely in the church and the academy and translated into multiple languages. She is also a published composer and hymn writer. Constance maintains an extensive schedule of speaking and teaching internationally.

Dr. Cherry will help churches capture the Essence of Worship and return to the Fundamentals that can be applied in any number of Worship Styles and help congregations in making decisions on what Style is appropriate for their church and worship environment.

We will end our time together with a time of Worship.
